With the change of our name we still have some golf balls and glasses for sale with the Golf Collectors Logo. Balls 3 for $10, glasses $10 each.

We held several displays recently. Noel Pittard organized a successful hit with hickories at the Queensland open at Gainsborough Greens. We had a tent display at the Open at Kensington in December. Master craftsman Ross Baker attended and crafted a long-nosed putter. This was presented to Kel Nagle at his induction into the hall of fame at Concord. We also joined with the Golf Society at the Australian Ladies Open at Kingston Heath at the end of February. All of this activity helped spread the word of our Society. Thanks to all those volunteers who attended and manned the tent.

Our avid golf collector Owen Denmeade also has a fine collection of bicycles, particularly Malvern Star. He has unearthed some golf clubs stamped "Malvern Star" and would like to know who made them and why. Please contact Owen if you have any information.

At our Golf Museum we are having trouble locating items to display that illustrate the wonderful history of Ladies Golf in Australia.

CAN YOU HELP?

We need items of memorabilia including:-

- *Ladies clothing (especially long skirts and blouses pre 1930)
- *Uniforms and Blazers from our Australian and State teams.
- *Clubs, bags and balls used by our champions.
- *Photographs, individual and teams.
- * Trophies and cups won by our champions.

Should you come across anything falling into these categories or any items you think might be of interest to help complete our display please contact:-

Author Brendon Moloney's book titled "Harry Hattersley, the life and journeys of a golfing legend" was launched by Harry's son Richard at this meeting. Also on the program was an address titled "The P.G.A. in Australia – the First 100 Years" given by Jim Webster.(see photo)

Sick list – Our dear Mavis, stalwart of the volunteers at the Museum on Sundays has hit a hurdle and off for tests. All the best Mavis and we hope to hear you are soon up and well again. Mal's wife Judy has just finished radiation for secondary breast cancer and together with new medication we hope she can resume her golf and travel again soon. (Europe in June!)

Feature Article – the ball-testing machine.

Dunlop/Slazengers began developing top class balls after W.W.2 and eventually produced the finest small ball (1.62") in the world. Our tournament players took these overseas and evoked so much interest (read envy) that samples were ordered to be tested. They were found to comply with the R. & A. regulations after they were tested on a machine installed on the practice fairway at the Australian G.C. (see photo).

With the advent of the large ball (1.68") in the '70's ball production in Australia virtually ceased and the ball tester sat in a small green tin shed for 30 years. When the club decided to remove it, they asked the Golf Collectors Society if they were interested. As a part of Australia's golf history we agreed to seek a new home for the machine. It is at present in storage and a permanent home is required – a weather shelter approx. 2m X 1m would suffice. Any organization or club interested should contact Tom Moore. (See no's above)
